Bankruptcy—Petition by Debtor.

We are now ready to fill orders by mail or express for the series of blanks to be used in Petition by Debtor. They are elegantly printed and ruled, in strict conformity with the official forms prescribed by the Supreme Court. There are thirteen different blanks in Debtor's Petition, including schedules, affidavits, etc. All these blanks are printed on separate sheets, with proper endorsements on back of each. Price per single set, $1; where six or more sets are ordered 75 cents.

Chief Justice Chase has declared the impeachment movement to be one of great folly.

Gen. Sickles in a letter to Senator Trumbull, says that the solution of the reconstruction problem is universal suffrage and general amnesty.

There is no party in Virginia which opposes a Convention. This is a foregone conclusion. This is what we intended to say a few days ago, but the types made us say "approves" instead of oppose.

The question is asked and reiterated, if Congress has no right to impose conditions precedent to the admission of the excluded States, why did the Ex-Provisional Governors in February of the present year, propose the plan which they submitted to the Legislatures of those States?

A leading member of our State Legislature under recent date, writes as follows on the subject of public sentiment touching Reconstruction:

"As far as I can learn, there is not more than one man in a hundred in these parts but have made up their mind to gulp the dose, as bitter as it is, fearing that like the fox in the fable of the flies, this Congress might prove a hungrier swarm than the last."

The Supplementary Reconstruction Bill invests Gen. Grant with extraordinary power—placing every civil officer in the ten unreconstructed States under his immediate power of removal. No such authority would have been conferred upon him by the dominant party if they had not felt assured that their plan of reconstruction has his entire approval. What do the Mobile Register and its kindred anti-Convention journals which have declared him to be their choice for the next Presidency, now think of their "Coming Man?" If he is still their favorite, consistency requires that they should at least acquiesce in the plan of adjustment which he endorses and is the chief instrument in executing.

Words of Wisdom.

The Richmond Whig, of the 8th inst., publishes a long letter from Hon. Wm. L. Goggin, on the situation. The objects at which, he thinks, the people should aim, and the motives which should govern them in the present condition of the State, are: Faithful compliance with terms of reconstruction; the speediest attainable recovery of our position in the Union; the avoidance of party divisions and suppression of party feeling among ourselves; the selection of men for public positions without reference to what they may have called themselves in the past, or may call themselves now, but weighing only their fitness; kindly relations with the blacks; the indulgence of a hopeful spirit, &c., &c.

The author of these views is a distinguished Clay Whig statesman of the olden school.

Referring to the case of the Kentucky Congressional delegation, the Louisville Democrat says:

Of course the State is disgraced by sending a delegation ready to swear they never helped anybody, Union or rebels; but it is still more disgraceful for the State to have no representation.

At Chicago, a few days since, a gentleman named Dalton was relieved of a tape worm over seventy feet in length. His physicians think that some forty feet of the worm still remain in his bowels.

Among the deaths reported in New Orleans, for the past week, we notice that three were occasioned by yellow fever, and seven by cholera.

The Power of Congress to Prescribe Terms, Admitted by the Anti-Congressionalists.

We are rebuked for advising acceptance of the Congressional scheme of Reconstruction as a choice between burthens, one or the other of which must inevitably be endured, on the ground that Congress has been guilty of a gross usurpation of power, and had no right to prescribe terms of Reconstruction for the excluded States.

This objection comes with a poor grace from men who gave their approval to the measures of President Johnson in 1865, and became his agents in their execution. But it is not to this point that we propose now to direct attention. Our object is to revive the remembrance of the fact that these same men are fully committed to the idea that Congress has the right to prescribe the terms of the admission of these States into the Union and to repudiate the policy of Mr. Johnson in 1865; and that they themselves have gone so far as to propose to direct attention. Our object is to revive the remembrance of the fact that these same men are fully committed to the idea that Congress has the right to prescribe the terms of the admission of these States into the Union and to repudiate the policy of Mr. Johnson in 1865; and that they themselves have gone so far as to propose to direct attention.

It is scarcely necessary to say that we refer to the proposition which certain Ex-Provisional Governors and members elect to the United States Congress under the President's programme submitted last winter to the Southern Legislatures, and which, if approved, were by them to be presented to Congress as a basis of settlement.

This was a distinct admission of the right of Congress to set aside the acts of Mr. Johnson, and to dictate other terms of Reconstruction.

But this is not the most noteworthy feature in the proceedings of these prominent actors in the drama. They not only conceded the power of Congress, but in the absence of any guarantee whatever of compensating advantages, they proposed to incorporate into the new terms which they originated the element of negro suffrage. Ex-Gov. Perry of South Carolina has figured conspicuously in this controversy, and has made it his especial business to arraign the people who are in favor of acceding to the terms of Congress as a choice of alternatives. Why do not the Reconstruction journals of South Carolina scourge him into silence, with the rod which he has placed in their hands?

THE FUTURE OF COTTON.—We find the following in the Charleston, S. C., News:

A correspondent of this city received a letter from a Manchester (Eng.) correspondent, who gives the following conclusions in reference to the future supply of cotton:

MANCHESTER, Eng., June, 1867. It appears to me that we are entering upon a new state of affairs, which must be taken into account:

1. The immense losses of the last two seasons have caused such a fall in the price of cotton, that the planters have been completely uprooted, and the wild speculators and their special supporters (the several banks) on both sides of the Atlantic have been ruined.
2. The supply of the raw article is larger than was at first expected.
3. The probability that there is now on the face of the earth a surplus of two and a half millions of bales for next year.
4. The substitution of woolen and linen goods in lieu of cotton, will take some time to change.
5. The general impression that cotton, as well as everything, is too high, and must fall in price before consumption can attain its former proportions.

The foregoing speculations are published for what they are worth: but we do not hesitate to say that any estimate based upon a larger crop of cotton the present year than the last is fallacious. The breadth of land in the cultivation of that staple is small, and it is much less promising now than at the corresponding period last year. The planting was unusually late on account of the backward spring; and the superabundance of rain which has fallen has given the grass an advantage over the plant which has not, and in most cases will not be overcome until too late. Besides, where it was impossible that both cotton and corn could be given the requisite attention, planters have neglected the former to secure a crop of the latter. In this, happily, they are succeeding admirably; but the cotton crop promises unfavorably.

The rumored execution of Santa Anna is discredited in Washington. The United States steamer Susquehanna has been dispatched to Vera Cruz to demand his release from custody.

We mentioned recently that a negro named Belton Chas. had been arrested here, charged with having committed murder in Georgia. South Carolina Gov. Orr writes Major Henderson, that "Belton is charged, and no doubt truthfully, with having been engaged in two of the most atrocious murders which have occurred in any civilized country;" and he desires him to be securely kept until he can send an agent to have him brought back to South Carolina for trial—first at Chester, where he killed Mr. Walker, and if necessary, then at Newberry, where he killed Mr. Lane. Both of these murders were for money. Belton is securely ironed and will no doubt be on hand when Gov. Orr's agent arrives. The boy was recognized here by an engineer on the Vicksburg and Meridian Railroad, for whom he formerly "fired," on some road in South Carolina.—Meridian Gazette.

Death of Hon. Jacob Shall Yeger.

The Vicksburg papers of yesterday furnish particulars of the sudden and unexpected death of this eminent jurist and distinguished citizen of Mississippi, which occurred at the Prentiss House on Sunday last, from congestion of the brain. The loss of such a man is a public calamity that will be recognized and felt throughout the State. We take this sad occasion to publish the following biographical sketch of the deceased, the substance of which was prepared at our intimate acquaintance of his. It will now be read with melancholy interest.

Jacob Shall Yeger was born in Greencastle, Westmoreland county, Pennsylvania, in the year 1810. His father removed from thence to Lebanon, Tennessee, in 1816. On arriving at manhood he elected to pursue the profession of law. After obtaining his license, he commenced at once to practice, locating at Nashville. So careful was his preparation and the address and skill with which he managed his cases, that he attained a high and honorable position as a professional lawyer, and with the public, as a sound and learned lawyer, as well as a successful advocate. Whilst in Tennessee he was an active and zealous Whig, occupying an eminent position with his party.

In the winter of 1857 he removed from Tennessee to Vicksburg, Miss. At the time of his removal to Vicksburg, the bar of that city was justly regarded as one of the most able and eminent in the South, including, as it did, such men as S. S. Prentiss, Joseph Holt, John J. Gait, Wm. L. Goggin, and others. At this bar, and at the bar of the U. S. Circuit Court at Jackson, as well as in the Chancery and High Court of the State, he held and occupied a position of the very ablest and most profound lawyers in the State of Mississippi. His practice was consequently large and remunerative. In Mississippi and Tennessee, he was an active and zealous Whig, occupying an eminent position with his party.

Twice elected from the City of Vicksburg to represent it in the Legislature, and once elected to the same office from the City of Vicksburg, he had removed in the year 1854, and where he last resided. In 1851, while he was a member of the Legislature, he moved to the city of Vicksburg, and resided there until his death. He was a member of the Legislature of Mississippi, and was elected to the same office in 1854, and was a member of the same body in 1855, and was a member of the same body in 1856, and was a member of the same body in 1857, and was a member of the same body in 1858, and was a member of the same body in 1859, and was a member of the same body in 1860, and was a member of the same body in 1861, and
